DIES ASSAILS DEAL CHIEFS

Gillis Axe Lops Off 4 Officials in Revere

Four official heads were lopped off today by Revere's new and crusading mayor, Laurence J. Gillis, within an hour after he had occupied the mayoral suite in City Hall for the first time.

But another official, City Auditor Josephine Farrell, defied the mayor's demand that she submit her resignation.

Miss Farrell was aide to former Mayor James M. O'Brien when he was city treasurer, and it was she who found the mystery cash box that figured prominently in the probe of Revere by the attorney-general.

High excitement ran through the corridors of City Hall as Gillis swung his axe, receiving three demanded resignations and suspending a fourth official who flatly refused to resign.

FOUEY SUSPENDED

Suspended was William A. Fouey, head of the welfare department and soon, according to the mayor, an investigation of the department under Fouey's regime will begin.

The three who resigned as a result of the Gillis purge were given out by the mayor's office as WPA Administrator William Smith, Building Inspector Charles White and Deputy Building Inspector Patrick Murphy.

Automatically going out of the city service today were Edward O'Toole, former secretary to Mayor O'Brien and acting superintendent of public works, and Joseph Coughlin, WPA assistant to Smith.

Mayor Gillis' first official action after taking the mayor's chair in City Hall was to appoint his brother, William A. Gillis, a reserve policeman, as his personal secretary.

SUSPENDS FOUEY

The second official act was to pick up a telephone, call Fouey and demand his resignation—a demand which was promptly refused. Hanging up the receiver, Gillis then dictated an order of suspension to Fouey.

Meanwhile, action by the mayor is expected in connection with the city licensing commission, where some changes are anticipated.

In a statement to the Boston Evening American, Mayor Gillis declared:

"'As I promised the voters who put me into this high office, I

76th Congress Opens Session

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—Banging gavels on the stroke of noon seat the new 76th Congress on its legislative way today—with the militant and newly hopeful Republicans wooing the conservative Democrats.

State Republicans re-elected Senator Charles McNary of Oregon as minority leader, shortly before the session began, and McNary promptly made an oblique approach to the Democratic conservatives by offering to "co-operate" in the matter of reducing federal expenditures.

"The unbroken voice of the (Republican) conference," he said, "was that all will co-operate with any group in an effort to decrease government expenditures, without doing injustice to those in distress or in need of relief."

The galleries were packed, although the opening exercises were ACCLAMATION vote gave Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Attleboro, the post of Republican floor leader. He was nominated by Rep. Allan T. Treadway, also of Massachusetts.

CONGRESS opens today—and Vice-President Garner, top, is ready for session that will see determined Republican attacks on the administration. At bottom, Rep. Sam Rayburn, left, who was named Democratic floor leader, and Rep. William D. Bankhead, who was chosen Speaker of the House. Bankhead predicted broad revision of several New Deal laws.

Probe Report Hits U. S. Alien Policy

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—The Dies House committee today delivered to Congress a 40,000-word report on unamerican activities containing a broad indictment of Nazi, Fascist and Communist agitation, severe censure of the administration's policy on aliens, and a request that the investigation be continued another two years.

NAMED chairman of the Democratic caucus, Cong. John McCormack of South Boston succeeds Rep. Doughton of North Carolina who declined the post.

The report bluntly linked the parent governments of the three ideologies, Germany, Italy and Soviet Russia, with the Nazi, Fascist and Communist movements in this country.

In the case of Germany and Italy the report charged that their American consulates have served as "clearing houses" for the direction of subversive activities in the United States.

But the committee did not reserve all the blame for foreign governments.

TAKES SLAP AT CIO

It indirectly took a slap at the CIO for furnishing the Communists "an opportunity which had been denied them by both the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods."

It looked with frank suspicion upon the personal sympathies of high officials of the National Labor Relations Board.

It openly condemned Secretary of Labor Perkins and the Department of Labor for "unbelievable laxity" in dealing with alien agitators.

The report was signed by all members of the committee—Representative Dies (D.) of Texas, chairman; Mosier (R.) of Ohio, Starnes (D.) of Alabama, Dempsey (D.) of New Mexico, Healey (D.) of Massachusetts, Thomas (R.) of New Jersey and Mason (R.) of Illinois.

Navy Asks 30 Defense Bases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Navy Department told Congress today it was in urgent need of 30 new air, submarine, destroyer and mine bases in the United States and its outlying possessions to meet the "normal operations" of the fleet.

Secretary Swanson transmitted to Speaker Bankhead a 50-page report of a special naval board which surveyed the base requirements of the fleet.

Auto Gas Kills 3 in Snowdrift

LOWVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 3 (INS)—Three lumberjacks who apparently sought to escape freezing by running their auto motor when they were unable to free the car from a deep snowdrift near Houseville were found dead today from carbon monoxide poisoning. Heavy snows which almost buried the auto kept fumes from escaping, investigators said.

The dead were: Bernard Grant, 30, Potsdam, N. Y., and Milford Widrick, 22, and Kenneth Loshaw, 27, both of Dowville.

McNary Made GOP Senate Leader

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—Senator Charles McNary of Oregon was unanimously re-elected Republican leader of the Senate today at a party caucus.

Dies Report Defines Americanism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—Following is a definition of "Americanism" offered by the Dies committee in its report to Congress on un-American activities:

"Americanism is the recognition of the truth that the inherent and fundamental rights of man are derived from God and not from governments, societies, dictators, kings or majorities . . .

"Americanism means the recognition of the God-given rights under the Constitution through the instrumentality of an independent Congress, an untrammeled judiciary and a fair and impartial executive operating under the American system of checks and balances . . .

"Americanism means the protection of an unorganized majority from an organized minority as well as the protection of a helpless minority from an inconsiderate and thoughtless majority."

SCARLETT — Jean Arthur, beautiful star of "You Can't Take It With You", will be given the Scarlett O'Hara role in "Gone With the Wind", it is revealed in exclusive story in Boston Evening American and New York Journal-American.

Jean Arthur Slated For Scarlett Role

Broadway's Jean Arthur and Boston's Margaret Sullavan, two very lovely ladies of stage and screen, were both taking bows today.

Jean Arthur, former New York high school girl, was revealed as Hollywood's final choice for the much-discussed role of Scarlett O'Hara in the movie version of "Gone With the Wind."

And Margaret Sullavan, who once was a clerk in the Harvard "Co-op," was named as having given "best performance of the year" in her role of Pat Holliman in "Three Comrades."

The honor awarded Miss Sullavan was by vote of the New York film critics.

They named James Cagney as having given the best male performance of the movie year in the role of Rocky Sullavan in "Angels With Dirty Faces."

Best screen play of the year was the film version of "The Citadel," they said.

Announcement that Jean Arthur would get the Scarlett O'Hara role was made exclusively today by the Boston Evening American and the New York Journal.

HONORED—Margaret Sullavan, Boston's own star, was named the film actress giving the "best performance of the year" for her role of Pat Holliman in "Three Comrades." The honor was awarded her by a vote of New York film critics.

Stock-Losses Run to $2

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—Selling of aircrafts unsettled the stock market today and leading issues fell fractions to more than $2 a share at the worst.

Rails did better than other groups, a few managing to post modest gains. Steels and motors held declines to fractions. Extreme losses were reduced in most cases near the final hour.

Clubs Wife, Kills Self Despite Child's Plea

NEW BEDFORD, Jan. 3—After bludgeoning his wife nearly to death with an iron bar, according to police, John Valles, 37, shot and killed himself today as one of his five children pleaded vainly to stop him.

The wife, Mrs. Priscilla Valles, 34, was found unconscious in her bed. The iron bar lay on the floor.

MOTHER MAY DIE

She was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, where doctors said her skull was fractured and that she probably would die.

Jeannie Valles, 14, eldest of the five children, sobbingly told police that a cousin from Providence had been a visitor last night at the Valles home in North street.

After the cousin left a quarrel began between her father and mother, Jeannie said. She added that she later dropped off to sleep but woke again about 6:30, went to the kitchen and saw her father pointing a revolver at himself.

"Don't shoot yourself daddy," she screamed in terror.

"Don't mind me," Valles replied—and fired, sagging to the floor as the revolver dropped from his fingers.

POLICE FIND NOTES

Police were called and found notes which said Valles was "going to another world."

In addition to Jeannie, the children in the family—all asleep during the tragedy—are Alice, 9; John, Jr., and Priscilla, 4, and Priscilla, two months.

Hold Hubby as Clothes Ripper

Alleged to have torn up every garment in his estranged wife's wardrobe, eve nripping the heels off her shoes and slippers, James E. MacDougall, 39, of Upland road, Cambridge, was held in $500 bail in Roxbury district court.

Unable to furnish the surety, he was temporarily committed to Charles street jail.

Police said MacDougall kicked down the door of a Mountfort street, Roxbury, apartment, occupied by his wife, Mrs. Madeline MacDougall.

She was allegedly visiting a woman neighbor at the time and was wearing only a negligee, it was testified.

When she returned to her own suite she found all her clothing destroyed, she said, and she had to borrow a dress from her friend before she could leave the house. She valued the ruined garments at $250.

The judge ruled that the case at hand differed from a previous Roxbury court case in which Judge Frankland Miles held that a husband had a right to destroy clothing he bought his wife. Mrs. MacDougall, a WPA worker, earned her own clothes, Judge Ahearn pointed out.

Jack Coogan, Bride Betty Grable Part

BETTY GRABLE AND JACKIE COOGAN
Separated by Economic Woes

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3 ((NS)—It's the New Year but the same old bad luck continues for Jackie Coogan, who won the heart of screen fans years ago as the wistful-eyed ragamuffin in "The Kid."

The former child star, now grown up to man's estate and to man's troubles, is not only broke and in the midst of court litigation with his own family, but is now having marital trouble as well.

This was admitted today by Mrs. Lillian Grable, mother of the Paramount starlet, who denied, however, that the separation would be permanent.

"Bettty and Jackie simply have decided to separate until his financial condition is better," declared Mrs. Grable. "They have had no trouble and are still in love. In fact, they went ice skating together last night."

It was only a few days ago, according to Mrs. Grable, that Bettty came home and Jackie went to stay with his uncle, George Coogan, in North Hollywood.

The home in which Jackie and Betty started their marriage so bravely last November has been closed, declared Mrs. Grable, and the furniture has been disposed of.

"But Betty is very loyal to Jackie," she said, "and I am sure they will go back together again as soon as Jackie is able to get on his feet. His suit still is being delayed, you know."

'Heavy Snow' Sweeps in On N. E.

New England faces a heavy snowfall by night, the United States weatherman warned today.

First snow began to fall at noon as the temperature rose from a low of 16 degrees at 7 a. m. to 20 degrees.

The snow was to continue all day, tonight and Wednesday. By that time, said the weatherman, the thermometer would have risen enough so that rain would begin.

Held in 'Hiker-Kidnap'

Two Framingham brothers today appeared at Framingham police headquarters, bearing between them an unconscious, badly beaten man, with the dramatic announcement:

"This fellow tried to kidnap us in our own car. We disarmed him and beat him up. Here he is!"

The beaten victim, Robert Moulton, 27, an Ashland truck driver, was arraigned in Framingham district court on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and carrying a pistol without a permit.

Judge Edward W. Blodgett held him in bonds of $1200. Unable to furnish bail, he was committed to East Cambridge jail.

The brothers, Edwin R. Smith, 21, and Harold B. Smith, 23, both of Hollis street, Framingham, told police they were driving through Natick when Moulton begged for a ride.

When they stopped, Moulton allegedly pulled out a gun and directed them to drive him to Westboro. As they made a sharp curve near Westboro, Harold noticed that Moulton lurched to one side of the rear seat.

In a flash he had nailed him a hard right.

Edwin stopped the machine and the brothers belted him into submission, they told police.

Driving back to Framingham, they turned Moulton over to Sergeant Thomas D. Anderson, together with a revolver which they said they had taken from him. The revolver was unloaded.

Movita Bride Of Jack Doyle

HOLLLYWOOD, Jan. 3 (INS)—Hollywood was surprised by word from Jack Doyle, better known as the "Irish Thrush" and former husband of Actress Judith Allen, that he is in Mexico with a new wife.

Ordered to leave the country December 13 because he had illegally entered it, Doyle presumably sailed for Genoa.

Today he advised friends that he was in Ensenada, Mexico, and married to Movita Castenada, the dark-eyed movie actress to whom he had been engaged.

Their marriage, it was learned, took place on New Year's Eve.

Now Doyle is planning ways and means of re-entering the United States legally.

France Ready To Fight Italy

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 3 (AP) — Premier Daladier brought assurances to the Bey of Tunis today that all France's military forces are ready to defend Tunisia if necessary against any Italian threat to French domination.

Daladier made a triumphal entry into Tunis at noon, escorted by native cavalry. Crowds smashed through police lines to cheer him wildly. He acknowledged the welcome with smiles.

The premier, who arrived at Bizerte, this morning on a tour of the empire's North African colonies, conferred with the Bey at his fifteenth century palace outside Tunis.

He told the ruler that France was determined to keep her protectorate over Tunisia, key to the Mediterranean, even if it means war with Italy.

A crowd of Neo Destours—Tunisian nationalists, whose organization had been banned by French authorities—took to fishing boats to demonstrate. While Daladier was crossing the Bizerte canal a small boat filled with Neo Destours pulled alongside.

Beating drums, they held aloft banners inscribed "down with France," "down with privilege" and "independence for Tunisia."

BULLETIN

TUNIS, Jan. 3 (INS)—Shouts of "Il Duce to the gallows" were heard tonight as thousands of French Tunisians turned out in a huge torchlight parade for Premier Daladier. The cries alternated with snatches of the "Marseillaise." Heavy police guards were assigned to Italian property.

Growls Told By Hubby in Court Plea

"We used to growl at each other and not speak for weeks on end," Henry E. Elliott, veteran Boston police officer said in Suffolk Probate court today when he took the stand during hearing of his petition for annulment of his marriage to Dorothy C. Elliott.

Judge William M. Prest took the petition under advisement.

Last October Elliott's divorce trial was brought to a sudden end when the death certificate of a man alleged to be Elliott's wife's first husband was introduced. Judge Prest ordered an investigation into the legality of the then existing marriage.

SAYS SHE TOLD OF BRIDAL

When Mrs. Elliott, who contested the petition, took the stand today, she declared that she had told Elliott of her previous marriage, and that she had believed her first husband dead.

"Henry wouldn't permit me to fill in the name of Gilmore (name of her first husband) when we filed applications for a marriage license," claimed Mrs. Elliott.

"Why, he even put his occupation down as a painter, and he was a police officer at the time. He told me to write that it was my first marriage, even though I had told him that I had been married before."

Mrs. Elliott told Judge Prest that she married Elliott in October of 1921, had that prior to this marriage that she had been attempting to locate Charles J. Gilmore, her first husband.

TOLD OF DEATH

A sister of Gilmore's informed her, Mrs. Elliott said, that Gilmore was dead. Possessed of this information she felt free to marry, she added.

Counsel for Elliott told the court that they were in possession of evidence that Gilmore didn't die until May, 1936. Elliott said that he had been living with Mrs. Elliott until September of 1936.

Charging that his wife lavished all her love on five dogs and four canaries, Elliott brought suit for divorce last October on grounds of cruelty.

Persecution of Catholics By Red Spain Protested

Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—Prominent Catholics, Protestants and Jews joined today in sponsoring a nation-wide campaign against the persecution of Catholics and the "wave of brutish vandalism, torture and murder" in that part of Spain still dominated by the Red regime of Barcelona.

Under the auspices of the National Council of Catholic Men, a representative committee of leaders of all faiths is being organized to circulate petitions opposing the efforts being made in this country to lift the existing embargo on shipment of munitions to the Barcelona government.

The petitions will be presented to President Roosevelt and members of Congress calling on them not only to maintain the Neutrality Act, but to strengthen it so that no munitions can be furnished to participants in such civil conflicts as the Spanish one.

INVITATIONS MAILED

Among those who have already accepted membership on the committee to serve with a group of outstanding Catholic clergymen and laymen are: James M. Speers, vice-president of the Presbyterian board of missions; the Rev. Charles S. MacFarland of the Congregational Church, general secretary emeritus of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ; Maurice Bugyer, of Washington, D. C., national secretary of the B'nai B'rith; Ogden H. Hammond, former American ambassador to Spain.

Lewis Kenedy, head of the National Council of Catholic Men, is in charge of arrangements for the campaign.

A mass meeting will be held in Constitution Hall, Washington, next Monday night, Mr. Kenedy announced.

TEXT OF STATEMENT

Text of the statement issued by the National Council of Catholic Men in connection with the drive for petitions follows:

The rising tide of persecution that threatens to engulf the world has horrified all men of good-will who had thought that such things were not possible in our vaunted twentieth century civilization. But one good thing it has accomplished, and that is to reveal in a new and searching light the necessity of our clothing with a new validity the doctrine of the universal brotherhood of mankind.

Protestants and Catholics cannot stand idly by when Catholics are persecuted; Jews and Catholics cannot stand idly by when Protestants are persecuted, for the new persecutions are progressive and will stop at nothing short of complete annihilation of religion, with its teaching on the balanced allegiance due to God and Caesar.

The modern persecuting totalitarian state will be satisfied with nothing short of complete possession of the souls of its subjects.

Unhappy Spain has been for the past three years the scene of the most cruel persecution the world has witnessed for centuries. The Madrid-Valencia-Barcelona government, whether by deliberate design or by mere sufferance, has tolerated an almost complete proscription of public religious worship throughout the area that it controls and has permitted a wave of brutish vandalism, torture and murder to proceed unhindered.

However one may choose to regard the issue politically, the before, no man of good will can face that government's record save with a deep-seated feeling of revulsion and reprobation. Nor can one's attitude toward the opposing faction in Spain rightly affect that judgment.

Our own country has fortunately been free of the savagery that has manfested itself in Russia, Mexico, Spain, Germany and elsewhere, and our government has seen fit to voice its protest to this persecution in principle. At the same time it has rightly held the peace and security of its own citizens paramount and has refused to take sides in the fiercely partisan issues that divide Europe and that are themselves the root cause of this persecution. To this end it has adopted a formal and statutory policy of neutrality.

NATIONS TAKE SIDES

As presently phrased, that policy of neutrality embraces civil as well as international conflict. This is as it should be, considering that the issues involved in the Spanish civil war are universally admitted, by partisans on both sides as well as by the impartial, to transcend not only Spain but even Europe.

Other nations have taken sides in this conflict, officially or unofficially; but the United States has not. And as long as it wishes to preserve an attitude of genuine neutrality it must continue not to take sides, must continue, among other things, to withold munitions from both parties to the conflict.

Had the United States continued to permit munitions shipments to the government which it recognizes in Spain it might have contended, under the principles of international law, that it was not formally taking sides in the Spanish conflict. Such permission would have been the result only of an omission to act on the part of the government of the United States.

But since our government has formally adopted a law forbidding munitions shipments, and has continued under that law for nearly two years, we can now return to the original position only by a positive act—repeal of the act of May 1, 1937.

DANGEROUS TO PEACE

As the lawyers committee on American relations with Spain, which favors lifting the embargo, itself admits: "Lifting the embargo . . . will destroy the whole scheme of . . . non-intervention . . . It will put new heart into the Democratic (I. E. United front) people of Great Britain, France, and other European countries, halting the retreat of democracy before an advancing, ruthless Fascism . . . It will immensely strengthen the courage and morale of the Spanish people and their government . . .

That our government should jeopardize its position of neutrality would in itself be bad enough, but that it should do so in favor of a government that stands responsible for the vilest kind of oppression and persecution is unthinkable.

LEADERS of nearly every faith are uniting in a crusade against the persecution of Catholics by Spanish Reds. Top to bottom, Monsignor John A. Ryan, ex-Ambassador to Spain Ogden H. Hammond and Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., National Council of Catholic Men is sponoring campaign.

Chamberlain 'Gift' Foiled

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Some of London's unemployed today tried to give Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain an "appeasement umbrella" as a New Year's gift, but police spoiled the presentation.

The rolled umbrella was in a black coffin which was labelled:

"Unemployment. He asked in vain for appeasement."

A "hearse" rolled up before the door of Ten Downing street and a hundred men and women surged toward the building.

Police sprang forward and in the scuffle the coffin was dropped.

Parleys Hint Nazis Relaxing War on Jews

Copyright, 1939, by International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 3 (INS)—The international drive to aid political and racial refugees of Nazi Germany had moved forward on two fronts today.

An official invitation to visit Berlin for discussions on the refugee situation and the status of Jews in Germany was received and accepted by George Rublee, American chairman of the Evian International Committee on political refugees.

Rublee will make the trip to the Nazi capital at the end of this week.

Simultaneously, it was learned Montague Norman, president of the Bank of England and one of the most powerful financial figures in the world, also will visit Berlin.

He plans an arrival there on Wednesday, ostensibly to attend the christening of a grandchild of Dr. Schacht, head of the Reichsbank.

But in reality London financial circles believe Norman is visiting the Nazi Reich to advise the German government regarding a proposed international loan to finance the emigration of Jews and other persecuted minorities from Germany to various parts of the world.

News of these developments concerning negotiations to relieve pressure on Jews and other minorities in Germany, brought comments of surprise in authoritative British circles.

Norman's entrance into the picture as well as Rublee's invitation were understood to have grown out of the recent London visit by Dr. Schacht.

Soviet Dooms OGPU Chiefs

MOSCOW, Jan. 3 (INS) — A military tribunal at Kiev today had meted out death sentences to five ex-officials of the Soviet secret police (OGPU) convicted on charges of false arrest and the use of "criminal methods" in obtaining confessions.

The five former members of Russia's most dreaded, undercover police force will be executed within 48 hours, according to the traditional methods employed by the Soviet in "liquidating enemies of the state."

They were part of the OGPU group operating in Moldavia and other parts of the Ukraine, vital agricultural region of Soviet Russia.

Convictions were proved against the five on charges of "provocative fabrication, illegal arrests and flagrant violations of the law while investigating cases."

According to the indictment, the officials arrested 10 village teachers, falsely accused of belonging to a Fascist youth organization, and imprisoned them for three months during which "criminal methods were applied in order to obtain confessions."

New Police Listing to Bar Scandal

With every precaution taken to avoid repetition of the scandal of two years ago, Boston police officers began today the task of listing residents 20 years of age and over.

The task of listing involves more than half a million persons.

The information sought is the full name and age of each person listed, his or her address a year ago on January 1 and the individual's occupation.

This year police have been told to get the correct ages of the ladies—not merely "overs."

To guard against another scandal such as two years ago, when vacant houses, stores, blocks and even vacant lots were found to be listed as carrying many voters, a thorough check of all vacant property has been made in each police precinct.

Beside place found vacant, the master cards have been stamped "vacant."

About 10 officers from each station will do the listing, so that a closer check can be held on the listers. Erasures on cards are taboo, and even if a mistake is made on a card it must not be destroyed.

A new card will be issued, and all cards must be returned, or the officer to whom it is checked must do some explaining.

General Hugh S. Johnson writes about Washington, every day in the Boston American.

Mayor Carney's Trial Delayed by Defense Move

TAUNTON, Jan. 3—A defense motion demanding that charges against Mayor Leo E. J. Carney, New Bedford, be quashed delayed opening of the mayor's trial here today in superior court.

In the motion, Attorney Timothy F. Callahan, Boston, characterized the indictment returned against the mayor as unlawful, non-valid and in violation of the defendant's constitutional rights.

The indictment charged Mayor Carney with five counts of soliciting bribes in connection with award of a garbage collection contract.

An legality of the indictment was attacked Judge James C. Donnelly called a recess, and conferred with counsel in his chambers.

Examination of jurors was about to commence, when the motion to quash was presented.

Three jurors of a panel of 50 were excused, one for illness, two for business reasons.

Judge Donnelly warned reporters and spectators that this trial must not be made a "Roman holiday."

Mother's Dive Drowns 2 Girls

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3 (AP)—A despondent mother rescued from rocks under a pier here told police early today she had jumped into the bay with her two small daughters. Police found no trace of the children.

Radio patrolmen said Mrs. Marjorie Montgomery told them she had received a sad letter from her divorced husband on Christmas and decided to take her own life and those of her children, Marilyn, two, and Barbara, four.

The officers quoted Mrs. Montgomery:

"I took Marilyn and Barbara under each arm and jumped in. I floated for awhile and then my strength was gone and I had to let go of them. My babies . . . my babies . . . now they have a home . . . now they will be cared for . . ."

Windsor's Flight To Queen Denied

LONDON, Jan. 3 (INS)—British court circles today flatly denied a report published abroad that the Duke of Windsor would fly to Sandringham alone this month to visit Queen Mother Mary on grounds the condition of her heart is causing "anxiety."

Gillis Starts Revere Sweep

sincerely intend to go through every city department and make all changes possible which will better the condition of Revere.

"Among the departments which will come to my attention first will be the police, public welfare, auditing, schools and public works."

FREE HAND TO TAPPAN

Mayor Gillis added that Acting Police Chief William E. Tappan, raised to the post in the forced absence of Chief Edward J. Tighe, will be given full powers during the next 30 days to make all possible "adjustments" to improve the police department's efficiency.

"I want to repeat my notice to criminals and racketeers who previously have been invited to operate in Revere that from now on there will be no place for them," the mayor continued.

LICENSEES WARNED

"To all licensees who have been making use of their privileges to operate after hours, I wish to say just this: 'Your day is over'."

In outlining his "reform" program, Mayor Gillis made the sensational revelation that he will order all records of the police department produced in order that a complete examination can be made of the department's operation during the months previous to the murder of Louis Gaeta.

Statements of every person questioned by the police during the Gaeta murder probe will be reviewed and duties of police officers down to the routine of men on beats will be studied, he stated.

The Revere mayor's action followed closely granting of leaves of absence to Chief Tighe and Police Lieutenant Henry Tracy, who with Special Officer William G. Gibson are under grand jury indictment for alleged conspiracy as the result of racket investigations.

Gibson, on advice of counsel, preferred a suspension to a similar furlough. The three officers face trial in March. Also under indictment is former Mayor James M. O'Brien, Mayor Gillis' predecessor.

Special targets for the new mayor's denunciations today were "chiselers" on public welfare. He also promised an investigation of school problems and said he would soon tell the "story behind the lack of supplies and textbooks."

In his inaugural address the new mayor asked the people not to prejudge or misjudge any of the three policemen, but to await the result of the trial.

Gillis in his inaugural did not stop with a request for fair play for the three accused police officials.

He denounced the racket conditions that someone is responsible for, and said they had driven all too many respectable persons from the city.

One of his major problems will be to restore confidence in the community, he said, and drive the mobsters out.

Phone Call Clue In Nurse's Death

City and state police and medical experts joined today in an investigation of the strange and sudden death of Mrs. Viola Casey, a registered nurse, at her home in South Common street, Lynn, following a New Year's party.

They are particularly anxious to trace a telephone call she made a few hours before her husband, Fred J. Casey, clothing salesman, awoke to find her dead in bed beside him.

Specimens of her blood have been sent to the state police chemist for analysis, and Lynn detectives have been assigned the task of tracing all her movements the night before she died.

Hurley Council Bows Out; Final Pardon Session

With the fate of a number of pardons, paroles and appointments in the balance, the executive council meets today for the last time under Governor Hurley.

The meeting probably marked the last hope for clemency for Edmund L. Dolan and J. Walter Quinn, as well as a number of convicts, including Tony Santello of Worcester, who, like his ex-pal, Raymond Patriarca, has served but a few months of two long sentences.

What action would result was awaited apprehensively by both Republicans and Democrats since Councilors Lindsay and Grossman, who recently have lined up with Governor Hurley, swung back to the side of their Republican colleagues at the last meeting.

The votes of the pair brought a speedy end to that session and blocked confirmation of a fellow member, Councilor Edward Collins, as clerk of district court at Springfield. By a tie vote, the Council opposed suspension of the rules and immediate action.

Seven minor appointments were to come up today, together with consideration of Hurley's appointment of James Agnew, Boston city councilor, as state director of fisheries and game.

Probe Insane Hospital Fire

An investigation of the spectacular fire that swept a building of the Boston State Hospital in Mattapan in which 15 insane women were asleep was underway today by order of Dr. Harold F. Norton, superintendent.

Only the discipline instilled by two years of fire drill prevented fatalities and a major disaster.

Wrapped in blankets, some of the unfortunate women, described as mildly demented, were carried to safety. Despite the highly emotional nature of the patients, there was little panic.

Miss Alice Molway and Miss Antoinette LaPlante, nurses, and Dr. John F. Sullivan played heroic roles.

The fire, starting in a second floor linen closet, was discovered by the nurses, who telephoned the alarms to Helen Driscoll, telephone operator, in the administration building.

Firemen said damage was about $1,000.

Publisher Cites Good Neighbor Flaw

"The following telegram has been received by William Randolph Hearst from William Griffin, editor and publisher of the New York Enquirer."

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 31
William Randolph Hearst,
San Simeon, Cal.

The coming of the New Year ought to inspire Americans to take stock of certain important policies of their government which, however well meant, have been demonstrably inimical to the national welfare of the United States.

Among these the good neighbor policy holds a prominent place.

At the Lima conference, which marked the crowning act of American diplomacy in 1938, good neighborism controlled our delegation, headed by our amiable secretary of state, Cordell Hull, with results which can readily be gauged from a statement of Nicholas Roosevelt, in a dispatch by him from Lima to the New York Herald Tribune, which reads as follows:

"To anyone who has watched here at Lima the almost extravagant eagerness of the American delegation to play the role of good neighbor and to do nothing that might in any way embarrass any one of the twenty sister republics south of us, the thought is sure to occur that the danger is very real that the good neighbor policy is now, and is likely to continue to be, largely onesided.

OUTLOOK CYNICAL

"Not that the Latin-American nations are deliberately unneighborly, either toward one another, or toward us. But their outlook is, almost without exception, cynically realistic.

"In international affairs they look after their own interests, first, last and all the time. In any negotiations or conferences, they think primarily and usually exclusively of what they can get out of the proposals. They feel it is their duty to further their interests on their own nationals on every occasion."

It should be self evident, I think, that good neighborism, like charity, ought to begin at home. Our government, however, does not believe in this principle, or at least, if it does so believe, has a peculiar way of evading it.

Washington is leaning backward to the point of tumbling heels over head to conciliate foreign nations by subordinating to their selfish interests some of the most vital concerns of this republic.

And while it is acting in this manner in the field of foreign relationships, while it is willing to purchase the friendship of alien nations with American dollars, it maintains throughout the union a state of fear and foreboding in every branch of business.

Good neighborism, so essential at home in the functioning of our government, is entirely non-existent.

Business and labor and government are not co-operating in the advancement of our national well being, because of the bad neighbor policy of Washington in relation to our domestic concerns. The result is that the depression of 1929 is still with us.

In view of the declaration of Nicholas Roosevelt, which I have quoted, it is to be hoped that Secretary Hull, Mr. Landon and the other American delegates to the Lima Conference are better Americans as a result of their experience in the Peruvian capital.

They were brought face to face there with realities.

CONTEMPT FOR U. S.

They saw the representatives of 20 Latin-American republics at work, not to jeopardize or injure their own countries in pursuit of an impractical policy, but each to secure for his own country every possible advantage.

They were acuated by a spirit of enlightened self-interest, and their actions commanded profound respect and produced valuable results for them.

They could not but inwardly feel the deepest contempt for the colossus of the north, the United States of America, because of the un-American and suppliant attitude of our well-meaning but misguided representatives.

Our prestige sank to a new low level at Lima, thanks to a one-sided good neighborism and the fatuous diplomacy of which it is a part.

The disastrous effects of that diplomacy are to be seen in our dealings with both hemispheres.

Mr. Hull's series of 20 so-called reciprocal trade treaties have increased employment, not in America, but in foreign lands, to the detriment of America, where jobs are so urgently needed.

The Hearst newspapers have thoroughly exposed the astounding folly of these compacts, as well as their unconstitutionality.

Yet prominent newspapers throughout the land, upholding good neighborism, are loud in their praise of this system of sacrificing America to foreign interests.

If these newspapers were logical they would display on their front pages the slogan:

"Read and advertise in the Hearst newspapers."

This is good neighborism carried to its logical conclusion. But they will not do so.

Yet they ask America to sacrifice herself to the advancement of her rivals, rivals that, unlike the Hearst newspapers, are not friendly competitors, but the most greedy and insincere competitors.

Isn't it time that our government should resume its traditional, its tried and true, role of being an American government; a government of, by and for the American people; a government which will stand for America first, last and always in our internal concerns and in our international dealings?

If it does this in 1939, the sesquicentennial of the launching of our government under the patriotic and statesmanlike guidance of President Washington, then 1939 will be ever-memorable in the American calendar.

I send you warmest New Year's greetings and every best wish for your continued good health and happiness.

SAYS EVERYBODY IS HYPNOTIZED

A strange method of mind and body control, that often leads to immense powers never before experienced, is announced by Edwin J. Dingle, well-known explorer and geographer. It is said to bring about almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind. Many report improvement in health. Others acquire superb bodily strength, secure better positions, turn failure into success. Often with surprising speed, talents, ability and a more magnetic personality are developed.

The method was found in remote and mysterious Tibet, formerly a forbidden country, rarely visited by outsiders, and often called the land of miracles in the astounding books written about it. Here, behind the highest mountains in the world, Mr. Dingle learned the extraordinary system he is now disclosing to the Western world.

He maintains that all of us are giants in strength and mind-power, capable of surprising feats, from the delay of old age to the prolonging of youth, and the achievement of dazzling business and professional success. From childhood, however, we are hypnotized, our powers put to sleep, by the suggestion of associates, by what we read, and by various experiences. To realize their really marvelous powers, men and women must escape from this hypnotism. The method found by Mr. Dingle in Tibet is said to be remarkably instrumental in freeing the mind of the hypnotizing ideas that paralyze the giant powers within us.

A nine-thousand word treatise revealing many startling results of this system is now being offered by the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 Smith Hobart Blvd., Dept. G2 A, Los Angeles, Cal. They offer to send it free to any readers of this paper who quickly send their names and addresses. Readers are urged to write them promptly, as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed.

10,000 'Stung' On Grid Pool

"Hello, Sucker!"

That was the New Year's greeting more than 10,000 Greater Boston bettors had to swallow, today, with such wry grins as they could muste..

[illegible]

AGENTS "ON SPOT"

[illegible]

"The two fellows who promoted the Bowl games pool said they came from Boston. But they hung around a certain corner in Newtonville.

PAID OFF AT FIRST

"They ran a pool on a couple of the last games of the 1938 football season. That time they paid off on the dot.

"We thought they were all right.

"On the Bowl games proposition, you could make any bet you wanted, from 25 cents up. The average was about 75 cents.

"If you picked four games right, you were supposed to get ten to one; five games right, 25 to one; six games right, 50 to one.

$150 VANISHES

"In my case, I sold about 500 tickets. I collected $200, of which I kept 25 per cent, or $50. I turned the other $150 over to the promoters.

"I supose I ought to have got wised up, when the Harvard football pool was exposed in the Boston Evening American last fall, after everybody lost their dough and the promoters left town.

"But I thought these fellows were on the square. So did the other suckers."

NERVE STRAIN APLENTY—BUT NO JITTERY NERVES FOR CARL DOSSEY—CHAMPIONSHIP COWBOY AND STAR OF THE RODEO

HIS NERVES MUST BE UNDER TERRIFIC TENSION
GREAT RIDING, CARL, BUT IT MUST BE PLENTY TOUGH ON THE NERVES
SURE IS, BUT I BEAT NERVE TENSION BY EASING OFF WHEN I CAN—I LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL!
I FIND CAMELS ARE SOOTHING TO THE NERVES

LOOK TO THE DOG FOR A VALUABLE HINT ON NERVE STRAIN

THE ENGLISH SPRINGER SPANIEL (above) is speedy, agile. He has a highly developed nervous system. In fact, it's remarkably similar to our own...complex, sensitive. But, unlike so many humans, this dog doesn't ABUSE his nerves. Nor does any dog. When a dog feels tired, he rests INSTINCTIVELY! We humans often let our will-power whip us on, deaf to the warning that nerves are getting jittery, frayed. Yet how much more pleasant and profitable life can be when nerves are rested now and then. Try it...pause when you get the chance...LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL! You'll welcome the pleasant comfort of Camel's mildness—rich, ripe flavor. Smokers find Camel's costlier tobaccos soothing to the nerves.

YOU CAN TELL by Carl Dossey's big smile that while he's resting his nerves—letting up and lighting up a Camel—he's also enjoying the mildness and rich flavor of a supremely enjoyable cigarette—finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS!

(left) STORE MANAGER William A. Knox's life is a lot different from Carl Dossey's, but there's plenty of nerve strain in it. "I'm on the jump all the livelong day," he says, "but it's my regular rule to break nerve tension by taking short recesses—letting up and lighting up a Camel."

(right) RECORD-HOLDING woman parachute jumper, Marie McMillin, knows the nerve strain of stepping out into thin air—4 miles up! she says: "I protect my nerves from tension by giving them frequent rests—I let up—light up a Camel. Camels are really soothing, comforting to my nerves."

THE LINE IS FORMING

The Editor Says:

Artist Nelson Harding's cartoon is timely and accurate, the line of crackpot schemers and self-seekers in Washington, and we shall hear much about them in the months to follow.

We must be on guard against lazy living off our working neighbors, against pressure groups that would cast aside hard work, offer contempt and resentment for the old human virtues of ambition and thrift and self-reliance, and that political and economic unity are based on sound budgets that "funny money" will bring nothing but sorrow and that prosperity is preferable to a system of government which compels man to live by the sweat of his brow.

The [illegible] guarantee anything and everything [illegible] was broken and not only. Almost [illegible] to the fact that they are perhaps [illegible] who are [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible]

It is [illegible] country and safeguard our own [illegible] [illegible] first glance, wage [illegible] of [illegible] are [illegible] that work is the ONE AND ONLY WAY [illegible] and happiness.

The [illegible] of course, to [illegible] and maintain [illegible] industry and employment by reducing taxes and [illegible] to the individual by placing a premium on thrift and creative effort.

But [illegible] ever will achieve prosperity for either [illegible] by busily following economic will-o'-the-wisps.

TRUEST "HICKS" are found in big cities, like New York, Boston and London, says Professor Mark Jefferson of Ypsilanti State Teachers' College in an address here.

The Michigan educator believes the native-born inhabitant of the average metropolis is narrow and limited because "he thinks he created his municipality's character, which in many cases he does not even share."

That is one man's opinion. It is not exactly ours. We agree the "rural" look is passing from the American scene, but we refuse to admit that individuals of comparable backwardness are to be found in Boston.

As we see it, citizens in this country are more or less alike now. Modern newspapers, motion pictures, the radio, the automobile, wide circulation of magazines, the telephone and the airplane have removed the barriers of two decades ago.

Consequently the girl in the remote Vermont village is apt to be as well informed concerning Paris' newest fashion decrees as the young woman on Beacon Hill.

The day when our country cousins gazed in awe at us while we [illegible] the wonders of the big city is gone. Lack of ambition, not [illegible] of money to the metropolis, is the only restriction on the [illegible] American.

MAYOR TOBIN, pledging himself to another year of hard work to maintain Boston's solvency, deserves praise. [illegible] from those who fail to appreciate the difficulties [illegible]

It would be easy for Mr. Tobin to embark on a program of reckless squandering of the people's money.

But, and very fortunately, our Mayor is not that type of man. When he took office a year ago he promised to serve all citizens, the taxpayers as well as those on the payroll. And that is what he is conscientiously trying to do.

The Tobin way may not always be the popular way. It is, however, the sensible way. The future will prove that.

Spare Giant Sequoias!

By EDWIN C. HILL

THE SECRETARY of the Interior Harold Ickes will ask the next Congress for an appropriation of $1,000,000 to buy 5,000 acres in the Redwood Mountain district [illegible] containing the last groves of giant sequoias [illegible]

Congress [illegible] Senate, are [illegible] of the Secretary's request. [illegible] last remaining [illegible] are the [illegible] and largest [illegible] earth.

SOME OF these great trees lift 250 feet and more into the air and are 20 to 30 feet in diameter, and if you want to gauge that great girth glance at the length and width of your living room.

Some of them were ancient giants when Christ preached through the villages of Palestine.

Some indeed are at least 50 centuries old, older than five thousand years.

[illegible] and they grow [illegible] they [illegible] the [illegible] on the [illegible] in the sea level.

There are [illegible] sequoia parks and [illegible] the Sequoia and the General Grant [illegible] an area of 604 square miles and [illegible] within Tulare County.

The General Grant National Park has only four square miles and lies partly in Tulare and partly in Fresno County. The parks are 31 miles apart.

The smaller reserve is famous for the General Grant tree which has a diameter of 40.3 feet and towers toward the sky more than 285 feet.

THE GENERAL SHERMAN tree second largest in the world so far as known is in the center of the Giant Forest reserve. It is a diameter of 37.2 feet and [illegible] upward 274 feet.

One [illegible] to these [illegible] a fruitful character [illegible] forest [illegible] would be among those [illegible] that were old very old when Moses led the Jewish people out of Egypt.

The great Kaweah [illegible] Southern California [illegible] over three counties [illegible] hundreds of miles was a fearsome thing. But great forest fires always are.

Years ago [illegible] with Pres. [illegible] in central California I passed through a huge forest [illegible] thousands of men fighting the red demon back from the [illegible].

And it was an awesome thing to watch [illegible] trees, 200 feet in height, [illegible] to the ground [illegible] years [illegible].

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMEWHERE along toward morning. Nice here tonight everybody sneezing or grunting or complaining and hacking pajama. Depending on the kind. Like I'm about having an upsetting a bowl of the fire going, because it takes at least of Dad arguments. Use of term grand and girls, boys and pals and other swearing at every first job to stand to backer 'em. So it's hard to guess what they're debating.

WHAT'S THE SMARTEST WAY TO HANDLE A JOB?

DO JUST WHAT YOU'RE ASKED AND DO IT WELL . . .

BUT DON'T LET ANYONE MAKE A SUCKER OF YOU BY PILING ON MORE TIME 'N' RESPONSIBILITY . . .

• • •

SHREWD, hard-working Sam started the ball rolling with that. Then big serious good-natured Gene objected with this:

NAW YOU'RE ALL WET! GIVE YOUR BOSS AND YOUR JOB ALL YOU HAVE. DO THINGS WITHOUT BEIN' ASKED EVEN IF THEY DO KEEP YOU OVERTIME. MAKE YOURSELF SO IMPORTANT THAT THE BOSS CAN'T DO WITHOUT YOU!

A hoary old controversial question. Dad and I never agree on them in 1939. Everywhere employers are saying that applications are worked and a heavier pressure . . . and Dad is telling Sam about all the overtime HE put in . . . the extra responsibility HE carried, with never a day passing without scores of anguished letters from Sen. Young. What a sap Dad was! Don't let yourself be taken in like that!

BUT WAS HE? I wonder. I'm of Dad's generation . . . even though I see most things through Sam's eyes. But in this particular case my vote goes to Dad rather than Sam.

There's going to be hard to explain some time the average 1939 young worker can't possibly feel the same way about his job as his Dad and I did in 1909. To us, Jobs weren't just something we worked at . . . they were OUR LIFE.

• • •

THE SET-UP isn't the same today. Because few are the youngsters today who feel that THEIR JOBS ARE THEIR LIVES. To the average modern youngster his work is simply a source of revenue—and nothing else. And there's a reason. Where Dad and I centered all our energy and enthusiasm on our daily working program, the 1939 youngster has scores of other interests.

He doesn't stop being a youngster when he starts working or gets married as we did. He goes right on talking about football or baking or politics or golf or horse racing or enjoying life generally. So, naturally, he doesn't see The Big Idea of giving any more than he needs to the Boss . . . and he's strong for any law which will keep Work Life strictly confined within definite time-clock limits!

Two widely different viewpoints. And I understand them both. But Dad still gets my vote. Not because I'm pulling for the Boss—but for purely selfish reasons. I've both played and plugged in my time.

But I've yet to see the Football Game, Fishing Trip, or Cocktail Party that pays a tenth as much, in joy and pride, AS YOUR OWN JOB IF YOU'LL PLAY IT WITH ALL YOU HAVE!

UNCEASING DEVOTION TO JOB, MAYOR MAURICE J. TOBIN'S RESOLUTION
More employment in Private Industry for Those on WPA and Relief His Earnest Wish

Girl About Town

by Mary X. Sullivan

WE JUST FOUND out how hard it is to get people to go on record about New Year's resolutions.

Try to pin them down, and they are all scaredy-cats. Suppose I break them, after committing myself, they say. Wasn't it Dorothea Dix, the "Wake Up and Live" gal, that spoke of "the will to fail?"

We interrupted Carol Ann Tobin's birthday party to ask the mayor about his resolutions, and over the youthful din he told us he resolves only to devote himself unceasingly to the strenuous problems of his job.

And though this column he expresses the following hope for the year:

"May 1939 bring to the 48 state men and women on the WPA, and to the 19,000 on the relief rolls—including, of course, those on Mother's Aid—decent Relief and Old Age Assistance, under an enjoyment and private industry."

HERE ARE a few resolutions we did gather:

HORACE T. CAHILL, lieutenant governor-elect (with his usual twinkle): "To remember that the people put you in, and the people can put you out."

"GINNY" PHELAN, one of our most popular glamour girls: "To take up my Red Cross work seriously. And to stop losing heels off my shoes and not to be the last one to arrive at parties."

CLARK DENNISTON—"Denny" of the Copley-Plaza: "To return the books that people lend me."

COMMISSIONER JOSEPH TIMILTY: "To use the same honest administration I have in the past."

MOST OF OUR MALE COLLEAGUES: "To go on the wagon." Oh, yeah?

MOST OF OUR FEMALE COLLEAGUES: "To go on a diet." Ditto.

WE HAVE JUST HEARD a suggestion which some smart hotel might well consider. We herewith generously pass it along:

"Why doesn't some hotel put in a private dining room with a kitchen attached, and let amateur chefs have the fun of cooking the dinner, with none of the dull duties such as vegetable paring and washing dishes?"

They could even have a big apron and cap—as practically every man we know knows how—and we predict a big success for the stunt.

A FEW MONTHS AGO for the celebrated Lou-and-Claire ballyhoo the White House came to Boston. Lou-and-Claire recently returned the call recently by attending Franklin Roosevelt's debut. One of the girls who attended said that the Washington weather was "just like New Haven during the Harvard game. Every time you passed a taxi someone screamed, 'Extra! Extra!'"

MANHATTAN MEMORANDA: The Hugh Dillmans, of society (she was Mrs. Horace Dodge), will divorce. Intimates say her allegations in the complaint will rock the Palm Beach set! . . . It's a Christmas Carol in the bassinet of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Costello of the Abbott and Costello comedy duo. . . . Alma Osterlag, the jeweler and Verna Berg, the Leora are yum yum . . . Despite other reports, the figure in the Jane Shaddock Bob Topping divorce was $750,000, with the Honolulu house tossed in . . . The Will Hays office threatened to scissor "Zaza," the Claudette Colbert film, beyond recognition (because of the theme, not the Can-Can scenes), but Paramount got obstinate and quashed the complaints, so the picture will be released without slashing . . . Mrs. Tony Canzoneri, the prize-fighter's wife, is returning to the stage in a Shubert production, under the name of Rita Rhoma . . .

PAGE FROM A DEB'S DIARY: Brenda Frazier didn't leave her debut party until 6:30 a. m., after her worried mother had requested Emil Coleman to stop playing because "Brenda has a temperature and I think she should go home and rest." The band finally stopped shortly before 7 a. m., having played continuously since 11 p. m. . . . Six girls, who came down the receiving line, wore dresses trimmed with ostrich feathers, as the Glamour Girl's was . . .

Almost 100 crashers got through before it was discovered how they did it. Girl guests were leaving the ballroom, accepting door checks, and tossing them over the stair rail to their gate-crashing beaux . . . Finally, along about 4 a. m., Brenda's own beau, Harry Wilson, was put on the door to check the incoming guests . . . Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt requested the orchestra to play "The Lambeth Walk," because she was anxious to see it danced, but scarcely any of the younger set joined in the steps. I think they are getting bored with it and leaving it to the older folks . . . One young stag brought a toy horse, wound it up, and let it shatter across the ballroom floor when the dots screamed in fright.

TALK AROUND TOWN: Gene Krupa's earnings for his first year with his own band will total $160,000 . . . Katharine Hepburn will do Ina Claire's comedy in the new Philip Barry play, the "Philadelphia Story" . . . Henry Ford, Jr., Edsel's boy who takes dancing lessons at the Arthur Murray Detroit branch, has become a shag champion . . . Jean Harrington, the debutante, and Bill Bapst, her constant dancing partner, are tra, la! . . .

PATRICIA MURRAY, a Philly commercial model, was chosen yesterday as the "Liberty Girl." She'll go to Hollywood for a picture called "Miss Liberty," with Claudette Colbert and the Mauch twins. Later she'll appear at the World Fair in an exploitation tieup . . . Somerset Maugham's new novel, "Christmas Holiday," due here next May, is as good as "Cakes and Ale" . . . The Hartmans took movies of the jitterbugs in the Empire Room Tuesday night, and it looked like research for a new dance satire . . . Mr. and Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart, Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche and Mrs. Margaret Emerson leave January 21 for a trip through Egypt and India . . . Carole and Larry Waterbury—(he's the 10-goal polo player) are leaving Palm Beach for a three months' tour of South America.

Dry Skin Cream Vanishes Into Skin Immediately

DON'T LET your face take a beating! Because that's just what winter weather does to a tender, sensitive complexion—it flails the fragile tissues unmercifully, until they sag in defeat! Try a Touch Of Indifference On Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What on my vacation this past summer I became acquainted with a young man I've wanted to know for a long time. He took me out several times and came to visit me at home, and suddenly he stopped. I saw him once or twice at different places and he was as if he were not there. One of my girl friends knew him and I long everything he wanted to be a friend. That suited me very well, but I've been down to see me since and I'm not sure what to do next.

KIT CARSON---Avenger! by EVELYN WELLS

Kit Carson Weds Lovely Indian Girl

CHAPTER [illegible]

Pine Needle had heard of Shumana's death and she came to Kit Carson with a courage that fought timidity.

So her trust was given utterly to Kit Carson. When next he rejoined the trappers in fall Kit would not ride alone.

They were married in her own camp according to Blackfeet ritual with Bridger and a few of Kit's cronies as guests. To her people for taking an Indian maid as bride was no high matter. Kit made marriage gifts of kettles and pans, axes and cloth and beads and knives.

And no trapper could take Indian maid for wife without making a fine bride of her! So Kit made gifts to her of cloth and long black stockings and a print dress with bodice and full skirt, brought all the way from St. Louis.

And he said

"Now that you are my wife you are no longer Pine Needle. I'm going to call you Alice."

After a time Kit had found his resting place in the shadow of a beetling cliff beside a stream known to the Snakes.

Where the mystery of her? How often Kit would ponder the question while holding her with a tender arm as she moved softly in the shadow of their lodge. Her people were not upon the face of the earth. Except for the Snakes Kit never saw a Blackfoot after the Rendezvous.

Where was her father? Other Indians spoke of him. He was the Great Bear to the Ute Snake. Kit Carson, the Yuma who "talks like a Mexican" to the Spanish.

Kit never did ask her forever the question on his mind. His love for her was a wordless and all-sufficient thing.

Then one day when Alice was in the fifth month of her pregnancy Kit left her with the other squaws while he went hunting for meat. He came back empty handed. It had been a day of warm rain and he returned wearied with 15 hours of following the trap line.

A KINDER CARSON

Why Alice is seated near by Indian squaws Clamorous and Lively Chatter and Alice has greeted her husband with a smile. He sighed the contentment of a man who has a loving wife to come home to.

He saw that she wore the attire Bridger and Carson and the others liked on the Indian women of the red skinned people who had trusted Alice to whom Kit had given his heart. There grew upon Kit a softness and a gentleness that was not there before.

He had seen the buffalo hide lodges they visited were happy places where love and mere food existed and the children were treated tenderly. He learned that the antelope dance was a playful and beautiful thing and who loved it and could watch it for hours on end.

He learned that dances were based upon deep religious impulses that the scalp dance was not one of blood lust but of victory, the buffalo dance a cry for food, the sun dance for fasting and prayer.

He came to believe as had Columbus long before, after discovering America, that the Indian in the beginning was generous and gentle and would give you the heart from his body." Brutality and hatred had been his teachers.

California Pioneer

Sometimes, as a guest in a tepee, Kit would teach the fat little papooses and their mothers to know, "Mary had a little lamb. Little lamb. little lamb! Mary had a little lamb, its fleece was white as snow."

It seemed to Kit that he could sink into the world of scarlet shadows that native faith Indian. He had a curious gift who waited for him in lonely places among stony peaks in rocky mesas. Alice was kind! And good, and he learned at last how deeply he loved her.

Sometimes, entering a wintry valley, a memory assailed Kit.

This took him to Sacramento, in California. Alice. Some day I'll take you there.

Summer was no distance for him.

THE NATION'S HERO

The long cold winter passed in great happiness and hardship, too, and then came a year that would mean great change to Kit Carson – the year 1836.

In this summer he rode with Alice into Bents Fort, the medieval looking, round towered adobe fort guarding the Santa Fe Trail where it crossed the Arkansas river. The thick adobe walls of the lonely fort contained [illegible] Indians with [illegible].

But lost in wilderness had not known that [illegible] Blackfeet had been [illegible] the East. He was [illegible] already a hero [illegible] lifetimes of [illegible].

He had not [illegible] the world beyond the [illegible] ing. "There is a fellow [illegible] has [illegible]."

The two men conferred then in whispers.

The [illegible] Bents Fort had [illegible] Kit Carson.

In the [illegible] was [illegible] the west [illegible] was [illegible] grown and [illegible] change. It was felt at Bents and in Europe. In [illegible] Kit [illegible] had not known [illegible] Republic of Texas was [illegible] a watchword. In the [illegible].

Kit stood looking down at the two mule loads of fur he had brought into Fort de Fuit. To another man they were just fur to Kit they were loneliness and danger, freezing cold and hot, [illegible] heat, and always, danger of death. Hurting these pelts, his steps had written a tremendous record of bravery and exploration.

For eight years Kit had been a trapper. Each day he had known death and often [illegible] fighting for his pelts had helped to make up the two million white [illegible] from Asia to France.

Kit sold his furs at 25 cents a [illegible].

The days of the trapper were over in America. The little brown beaver had led the white man to the West. The hunt that had rested the beaver also destroyed the Indian. Both were helpless against the white [illegible].

'Allergy' Fear Often Needless

By ALLAN ROY DAFOE, M. D.
Personal Physician to the Dionne Quintuplets

Few medical words of recent years have had such a run for its money as "allergy." People believe they are allergic to this or that, and so much hocus pocus has been broadcast about it that in some places it has developed into a racket.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan 3 -Years ago a little boy, tow-headed and so cunning, played in a picture based on Percy Crosby's celebrated Skippy." Almost overnight he became famous and probably the best known child actor on the screen. That boy, as you and I both well know, was Jackie Cooper.

Vines and His Pals Do It Again at the Garden

AS ONE WHO HAS OFTEN CHIDDEN the business wrestlers for their audacious mockeries in which brothers of the same lodge are pitted against each other, I do not see how I can conscientiously praise the professional tennis gigolos, Don Budge and Ellie Vines, for imposing on public credulity at the Boston Garden tomorrow night.

AUSTEN LAKE

Here are the tennis tourists bush-whacking and barnstorming about the country, making tournament stops for profit and alternately licking the spots off each other without so much as a breath of suspicion from the customers and press.

And there are herds of wrestlers, employes of the same skin-carnivals, riding the pullmans between towns and dropping off on opposite sides of the same train to appear later as sincere and savage rivals, amid the stout aroma of scandal!

Vines Advances $25,000

Budge Learned From Vines

Would not say that Vines, for the sordid sake of his $25,000 and the prospect of further percentage, would begin to baby his shots, or that Budge to insure the rest of his guarantee, would whoa down his tempo to conform with the rhythm of his rival's eye, wind and limb?

Still, what about the wrestlers?

Young Nave Assured Of Varsity Letter

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 3 (INS)—Doyle Nave, hero of Southern California's spectacular 7-3 victory over Duke in the Rose Bowl classic, today was assured of his varsity letter—an honor which so far has been denied him.

Nave Hurt Friday

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP)—A fall in the Rose Bowl shower room nearly robbed Doyle Nave of the chance to be a football hero.

Southern California's fourth-string quarterback slipped and hit his head on the concrete floor Saturday.

Several stitches had to be taken to get him ready to warm the bench for 10 minutes of the game with Duke. And he was wearing a big bandage on his forehead when he hurled the winning touchdown pass.

By the Associated Press

Texas Christian and Tennessee got throwing hands on the national football championship, and Duke's dreams of football empire faded in the bleak atmosphere of the arroyo seco as the football season ended on a note of violence and high hysteria.

Only a bowl game to end all bowl games can settle the mythical title chase now. Texas Christian effectively drubbed Carnegie Tech, 15 to 7, in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl, while Tennessee rolled steadily to a 17-0 win over Oklahoma, hitherto inviolate, in the Orange Bowl at Miami to preserve the season's two-mog nvibl records.

$1,000 AT PASADENA

But if the Horned Toads and the Volunteers gained the greatest glory, twice-beaten California provided the drama.

With a little over a minute to play and Duke protecting a 3-0 lead, Boyle Nave, fourth string quarterback, threw four complete passes to advance a 7[illegible] drive for the Tigers in the Rose Bowl as 93,000 the days biggest crowd looked on.

Ellsworth Vines Polished Athlete ⁞ Don Budge Has Sparkle of Youth

By JACK CONWAY

AS SPORTS personalities, Ellsworth Vines and Don Budge, who play tennis at the Boston Garden tomorrow night, rate with Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey.

Walter Brown introduced me to Vines and Budge when they were in Boston. As the two famous tennis stars talked, I tried to study their personalities.

Mr. Boston

Vines, 27 years old, is the finished, polished man of the world. He is sure of every move he makes as well as of every word he utters. When Vines is no longer able to play tennis he can become a promoter.

Vines is as well informed as to the drawing powers of tennis players in different cities and to what they are entitled to get for their services as he is about the game itself.

One can see readily that Vines has been around, and that he knows all the sports answers.

Budge is 23 years of age, and in manner of speech and actions is still the unspoiled boy. I believe he is more interested in playing tennis than he is in the $75,000 he has been guaranteed for his present tour.

It was quite evident talking with Vines and Budge that the latter looks to Ellsworth as the champion.

Indoor tennis is still very new to Budge, and while he is hopeful he will play as well as he does on the outdoor courts he has his doubts.

Vines and Budge have both schooled themselves to expect cheers and yells from the crowd during the high points of their matches.

"When people go to the Garden to see a tennis match," said Vines, "they expect to act much like they would at any other sports event in the same building. If a tennis player schools himself to expect much noise and excitement during a match, it will not bother him.

"There will be people in the Garden Wednesday night who wouldn't bother to go to Longwood to see Don and myself play. The Garden is their spot for athletic entertainment, and they feel they have a right to act as they do when out for a holiday. I would be the last person to object to anything they may do."

* * *

Playing to Win in Tennis

VINES MAKES NO secret of the fact he does not like to hear people saying tennis matches are arranged so as to make a tour profitable.

"The better player usually wins in tennis," said Vines. "It means much for him to do so. The victor gets the choice dates and the big purses the following year.

"If I had not beaten Fred Perry, he would be making the present tour with Budge.

"Perry is a great tennis player, but he permits his temperament to destroy his effectiveness. When an official rules against him on a close play Perry becomes excited and his subsequent playing falls off. One must take the poor decisions with the good ones, try to play a steady game and display a little lift in the important stages of a contest."

Vines is frank in admitting he is not considered a colorful player.

"I play to win," said Vines, "and that is how I have kept in the big money. In doubles matches, I often try reckless, spectacular shots to give the gallery a few thrills, but when the money is down or I am playing in singles I don't take any chances."

* * *

Vines and His Golfing Career

I DO NOT TAKE seriously the talk that Vines may quit tennis for golf. In tennis Vines is a champion, while at golf he is only an average player. Vines is frank in admitting that even small golf galleries get him jittery. It is because he is not sure of himself when on the links.

Playing before thousands of people in a tennis gallery, Vines is as cold as ice.

Vines is so confident that his tour with Budge will be a success that he is gambling on the gate receipts. He will not receive a dime for his services until Budge is paid $75,000.

"Jack Harris and myself then cut in for a percentage of the show after Budge gets his $75,000 guarantee," declared Vines. "I think the tour will draw $250,000 and we all should make out well."

The first matches will be held in the New York Garden tonight. Vines, Budge and the other members of their party will take a noon train for Boston tomorrow.

Lou Brouillard To Sail Monday For France

Lou Brouillard, New England middleweight champion, has signed for four bouts in Europe under the promotion of Jeff Dickson.

Brouillard will sail for France next Monday. His first bout will be in Paris on January 25, and he will have as an opponent the victor of the Tenef-Christofordis match that takes place in the French capital on January 11.

Lou will later take on Gustave Roth in Brussels, and Adolph Heuser in Berlin. A fourth match will be staged in Paris in March.

Brouillard knocked out Johnny Rossi in Worcester last Friday.

Buckley says this is Brouillard's best fighting notching, and he looks for Lou to have a successful European trip.

Cochran Makes Tufts Cage Power

CHARLIE HIBBS, CENTER — CAPTAIN JIM WELDON

By MURRAY KRAMER

Over in Medford there is a forgotten team resplendent in natty brown and blue uniforms proudly displaying the name "Tufts."

Each year Art Cochran takes a group of kids, most of them youngsters who couldn't make a high school team, and turns out better than average clubs.

Yet, somewhere in the shuffle, while Harvard, Boston University, Brown, Dartmouth and Northeastern are in the limelight, the activities of the Jumbos are somehow hardly noticed.

Last year, Tufts surprised the entire East by whipping a great Brown team and a powerful Boston University outfit, and this winter, in two starts, the Brown and Blue is undefeated.

The boys downed Northeastern, 30-21, and then toyed with Bates to the tune of 52-29. Their next start comes tomorrow night against Clark, and on Saturday Harvard provides the opposition.

And you can rest assured that Clark and Harvard will know that they have been in a ball game despite the fact that Art's first five has only one starter who could make his high school team.

This honored individual is Charlie Tibbs, long, lean center who hails from Weymouth. Tibbs is a deceptive, lazy looking type of athlete who impresses you no more than a milk wagon horse in a stake race.

Yet, you notice that despite his apparent awkwardness he is always in the right place at the right time and is an uncanny shot. He has exceptionally long arms and is a master in tapping home rebound shots.

The forwards are Freddie Jenkins of Medford and Ray Varney of Melrose. Jenkins is the keyman on the club succeeding Benny Collier who was graduated last June. Freddie could be a high scorer but seems to get a greater kick out of "feeding" and as a result is invaluable.

In the back court, Captain Jim Weldon holds away at one guard post while the other job is still to be a battle between Phil Gomez of Brattleboro, Vt. and Henry Pecheux of Newbury, N. Y. The latter started the last two games but the chances are that Gomez will get the call tomorrow against Clark.

And that's the Tufts club. True there are reserves which are absolutely essential in this new streamlined, high speed basketball, but these six share the lion's burden.

Most of them are not "naturals," and Hibbs is the only man who has any of the height supposedly so essential in modern basketball.

Yet, the boys do all right. The secret is Coach Art Cochran. He realizes these deficiencies, but instead of growling, makes the best of what he has. He devotes hours to simple fundamentals that most college coaches never use. Art figures, though, that he must employ every trick possible and can't afford to overlook a bet.

He caresses speed and short passing. The boys don't shoot long, but try to set up every basket, and they try never to throw the ball away. Art's principle is that you can't score when your opponents have the ball, therefore, keep possession of it as much as possible.

AWA Approves Flying Tackle

Gus Sonnenberg's flying tackle is as legal in wrestling as any hold, the American Wrestling Association ruled in answer to a protest by Redy Dusek. Dusek had asked that he tackle be banned when he collides with Sonny Friday night in one of the main bouts on Promoter Bowser's all-star card at the Boston Garden.

"We have ruled before that the tackle is legal. Sonnenberg may use it in any bout staged under the jurisdiction of the A. W. A.," the wrestling body wired Dusek, to settle for once and for all any dispute on that point."

Meanwhile, Sonny celebrated New Year's Day by whirling through a workout with three training mates and for every minute of the time he concentrated on his tackle. The Sqtt has been cracking them all down lately and Gus thinks it will eventually lead him to the title again.

In the co-feature, the bad and mysterious matman from the west, The Shadow, will attempt to erase Jim Casey as a top notcher, and is most confident of doing so. "I have watched the Irishman," The Shadow said. "He is too nice a boy to be a wrestler.

"I think he will be content to go home and be a fisherman again when I get through with him." At which Casey merely laughed and promised to unmask the villain at long last.

Because prospective contestants in the January 22d Silver Skates Derby, to be held at Boston Garden, have a speed party at Boston Arena tonight—and there's always good ice there.

Practice races are lined up for tonight's Arena workouts and there will be nice little prizes to keep interest at high pitch.

Ben Levias and other Derby directors will be on hand to make things pleasant for the Silver Skaters and to see to it that everybody gets a chance to swing into line for the major Boston Garden event, now only a couple of weeks away.

JOE FOX BACK

The special reduced rate coupon appears in today's Boston Evening American. That coupon, together with 25 cents, admits the bearer to one admission.

Joe Fox, who just returned from the annual Eastern championships at Newburgh, N. Y., tells us that interest in the Silver Skates surpasses anything in the four-year history of the speed classic.

The star member of the General Electric Association has already started to prime for the Garden title event, in which only a bad spill prevented him from capturing top honors a year back.

The entry blank appears in today's American. May we advise one and all, men and women, boys and girls, to mail it TODAY.

Polly Sparkles At Turner Fete

Edi Scholdan, formerly of Vienna and London, who was making his American debut, took the chill out of the spectators.

Charming Polly Blodgett of Boston entranced the crowd with a beautiful display of icy capers. Barbara Ann Scott, 10-year-old Canadian miss, also charmed the gathering.

Cissey Madden, Sue Rosenthal, Roberta Jenks, Nancy Davenport, Fay Kirby, Ann Sargent, Michael Driscoll and Barbara Krieger were but a few of the skate artists appearing.

Little Sees Grid Rules Same

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Jan. 3 (AP)—As Lou Little, president of the American Football Coaches Association, sees it, the game of football in 1939 will look about the same as in 1938.

The keg-chested Columbia coach said today he thought the national rules committee in session at the Broadmoor Hotel "won't do much more" in revising the grid code than the coaches did at Chicago last week in advocating changes.

All of the coaches' recommendations were of minor importance, designed mainly to take some of the severity off penalties imposed in cases of forward passes hitting ineligible players and violations during kicking plays.
